THE CELESTIALS AT NIBLO'S .- For the first time in history a dramatic company of the children of the Celestial Empire have condescended to appear on the stage before utside barbariaus of this latitude. Praised be their sutelar deity, "Josse," for having inspired his faithful wor shippers to come thus to astonish our weak minds by the y, of their great histrionic talent! For se ceks past we have had the pleasure of seeing these nas of the Flowery Kingdom perambulating Broadway in groups, staring with their little porcine eyes at the strange sights which there met their vision, carrying their tails behind them like the famous Corkonian, cele-brated in the old ballad, and rejoicing in the display of salico pants, which, for their magnificent propor must have created the envy of those ha-of the paré to whom their fashioners have so niggard in the article of cloth. In the omnibuses, also Nong-chong and Chi-yan-too, and the des of these Macreadys and Forrests of the Central iom, may have been seen from day to day, sitting sonveyance. Yesterday evening, however, the company, is distinguished by the appellation of "Like Great Canton Histrionic Company, " made their debut in Miblo's theatre, before a very numerous and fashionable assemblage. The proceedings of the evening commenced with what is described in the programme as an "Impos-ing religious scremony—invocation to Joss-Mu chong (King of Kings), Ko numm (Queen of Heaven) how (Lady of light) supplicating , his benediction." This ceremony was by no means suggestive of any very selemn or religious act of devotion. On a sort of raised dais or throne sat the priest, under the shadow of a gilded representation of the sun. A flight of half a dozen worshippers, in twos and fours, the male performers wearing long beards, black, brown and silvery, and all colors. They did not all some out together, but in sucto the representative of "Joss," amused themselves shaking their legs, making some very rude attempts at some chant composed of any number of three letter mono syllables. But such singing! If the auditory would se their eyes they might well imagine that they were assisting at a fashionable moonlight concert of cats. Every cadence concluded with some sound like nothing else in the whole range of sound except the moyanow" of a well developed mouser, prolonged by a double quaver. The orchestra music was much in the same style as the vocal, and was well worthy of it. thing most villanously akin to the shrill, monotonous drone of the Scotch bagpipe, combined with the artistic execution on tin pots and pans, the sonorous tone of the gorg, and the rattle of the castanets, to make what the Thinese might call harmony, but what outside barbarians would certainly characterise as the most infernal din wer invented. The first batch of worshippers having performed their salutations—vocal, instrumental, and pantomimic—apparently received a favorable response om the oracle, as they then went and seated themselve n the lowest of the crimson-covered steps; the next catches went through similar exhibitions, and then all bacebes went unrough similar descended, and marched in procession round the stage; and this ended part the first. Part the second, repre-ented a grand marriage ceremony, and the whole conhaded by the performance of feats by Japanese tum-

The Departure of the North Star. The North Star is off. After a few repairs, taking two or three hours to make them, she slipped down the East ewer, and is now, probably, far at sea.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD. The steam yacht North Star, outward bound, passed by Whitehall at a quarter to eight P. M. Salutes were ex-change from on board the vessel and from Pier No. 1 East river. She went slowly and cautiously down the river but after passing Governor's Island her speed was insed, and she went rapidly down the bay out of sight. It was stated in the papers the accident would probably cause a delay of a week or so. The operation hours. The early departure was, therefore, so unexeted to me, that I was afraid she had possibly stolen a arch on almost every one. LOOK OUT.

She floated off the rock at the foot of Jackson street, en Thursday afternoon, about two o'clock, at the turn of the tide, and was taken over to the navy yard, at where she was examined. It appears that the accident was not eaused by any fault of Mr. Martineau, who is one of our most experienced pilots. Com. Vanderbilt thus exonerates Mr. M.:-

STEAM YACHT NORTH STAR. BROOKLYN NAVY YARD, MAY 20, 1853. TO THE EDITORS OF THE NEW YORK PRESS:—

I am fearful that some blame may be attached to Mr. an Martineau, the pilot of this vessel, for our misfortune in touching the rock at the foot of Corlaers street, yesterday, on leaving the wharf.

The object of this note is to relieve him from all blame as the vessel had not steerage way at the time of her touching the reef; therefore, he is entirely free from

I know Mr. Martineau to be as good a pilot as there is ent of the harbor of New York, and in this particular case, if there is any blame at all, place it on Your humble servant, C. VANDERBILT.

The mail steamship Hermann, Capt. Higgins, sails at oon to day for Southampton, the same port to which the North Star is bound. Which will arrive there first?

Baldness—Few People believe that Baldness is a natural consequence arising from a long course of inelpient disease incident to carclessness regarding cleanliness of the scalp. To remove dandruff and other cromoters of disease of she hair, and secure a beatthy capilliary action favorable to growth and preservation of color, use the hyperion fluid, invented by William Boldle, No. 27 Washington street, Boston. Its virtues are acknowledged to be unequalled. Also, in New York, by A. B. & D. Sands, No. 100 Fulton street; Rushton, Clark & Co., No. 273, and Rice & Smith, No. 729 Breadway; and by the druggiest and perfusers throughout the world.

The Hippodrome and Knox's Hat Establishments in the city—
Matthe former, you are entertained; at the latter, delighted. At the former, you are entertained; at the latter, delighted. The French female equestrians are full of spirit and beauty. The French female equestrians are full of spirit and beauty. The French female equestrians are full of spirit and beauty. The Price of a genuine, unapproach and the spirit and beauty and Knox's rate possess like qualities. Parts Chartvari, in commenting upon the anter the Paris Chartvari, in commenting upon the latter by the section of the police, who dunish had it there in ventions of articles of bead gear, as suggestive of disorder, advises the adoption of the night cap as the most innocent and harmless coiffure known. It says:—The style entitled Calabrian is forbidden as seditious; the bulging crown is contraband, because it looks like a howitzer or small mortar; caps and visors are punished with a fine, because they are worn throughout Germany by the students, and all the students are demagognes; pointed hats were once a rallying signal; broad brimmed hats were worn be Bolivar, who was a revolutionist; brown hats, with long fuzz, were, and still are, the favorite covering of P. J. Prodhon. Evidently there is nothing left but the night cap. We pity the Munich hatters, and congratulate those of our city, especially our friends KNOX & JAMES, of the Prescot hat store, who can centimue to supply the demand for their elegant summer hats, without fear of molestation. Gentlemen in search of an elegant, fashionable, remarkable and cheap hat sopring street, opposite Collamore House.

Try those Hats of the French Practical latters.

Question and Answer.

Pray, where did you buy that elegant hat?

Excuse me for asking the question so pat.

But I bought mine in Broadway—24 the price.

Which, compared with your's, don't look half so nice. which, compared with your's, don't look half so nice.
I answer—you were foolish; but $3 I gave,
For your $4 hat is a "regular shave;"
By this, pray remember—nothing unkind is meant—
But somehow Broadway must pay its "wery high rent."
Now mine is a really beautiful hat—
Not too high nor too low—the brim not too flat;
'Tis W. BANTA makes these hats so complete,
His store is One Hundred and Six Canal street.

No. 1 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK, MAY 20, 1853.—
To my Hardshell Friends:—I desire to thus publicly say to you that the report that I am an applicant for office in the Custom Hones is totally false. At the time when we all thought our frierd Schell would dispose of the patronage of this port I did think of serving the country. Then the skies looked bright. But now all in this region looks as gloomy as the check of Douglass. Under these circumstances, I shall content myself. for the present, in representing the good old "invincible" Fourteenth ward in the Board of Assistant Aldermen, and entirely abjure all connection with government pap.
